

PRESS RELEASE

Group photography exhibition

Somewhere called home

DL gallery presents on Saturday 22 of November 2025 the group photography exhibition titled “Somewhere called home”, featuring works produced by international and Greek artists within the framework of the return2ithaca 2023 & 2024 program.

In the exhibition titled “Somewhere called home” nineteen photographers, through a collective journey of memory and understanding of the Ithaca experience, capture the eternal human quest for a destination, real or dreamlike, for a place that can be called “home.”

The exhibition explores the search for the space that generates the feeling of homeland, familiarity, and belonging, illuminating the complexities and contradictory emotions that accompany every journey of return.

Return is presented not only as a physical movement toward a place but also as a spiritual and emotional journey of self-discovery, inspired by the timeless epic of the Odyssey. The bright and dark paths of the exhibition reflect the trials of a long voyage, reminding us that every return presupposes effort, upheaval, and deep personal transformation.

Visitors are invited to reflect on how Myth, in our case, the Odyssey, continues to dwell within us, how its meanings still guide us, and how return can become the starting point for new paths and discoveries.

*What is the RETURN2ITHACA program?

Return2Ithaca is a cultural initiative held every summer on the island of Ithaca. For six consecutive years, the program has brought together artists and curators from around the world for 15–20 days of creative research and artistic dialogue.

Inspired by the themes, concepts, and timeless myths of the Odyssey, Return2Ithaca seeks to redefine the island's cultural and historical heritage through contemporary artistic practices and experimentation
